These Courses Are Free To All The Young Men And Women Between Ages Of 18 And 30—Students Who Are Planning To Attend Should Register At Once At Office Of P. J. Tooley, Grande Prairie—More Particulars Can Be Had From W. B. Scarth, District Agriculturalist.

Following the dates arranged for Beaverlodge, an Agricultural Youth Training Short Course will be held at Grande Prairie from November 27th to December 16th. Mr. Donald Cameron, of the University Extension Service, announces that there will be no Short Course held at Spirit River this winter, so that young people in that district who wish to attend the course, should arrange to come to Grande Prairie. After New Year, courses will be held at Fairview and Falher, definite dates to be announced later.

These Short Courses are free to all young men and women between the ages of 18 and 30. Advanced work is being planned for those who attended the school last winter, so that former students are urged to return, and also to advertise the courses to others in their community.

In order that advance arrangements for accommodation may be made, it is essential that every student planning to attend the Grande Prairie Course should register at once at the office of P. J. Tooley, Grande Prairie. Early application is of great assistance to the local committee.

Remember that Beaverlodge and Grande Prairie will be the only courses held south of the Peace River this year.

Sexsmith Veterans Prepare Program For November 10

Which Includes Banquet, One-Act Farce and Dance—On Saturday Morning Veterans Will Parade To The Cenotaph Where The Usual Annual Solemn Ceremony Will Be Observed.

SEXSMITH, Nov. 7. — The local branch of the Canadian Legion have prepared an ambitious program for Friday, November 10, which includes a banquet in the Weicker Hotel at 5:30 p.m., the presentation of a one-act farce at 8:00 p.m. by well-known local artists, recruited from the ranks of the Vets, and a dance to follow.

The cast in the play, which is entitled, "The Old Geesey" are Mrs. J. Neys, Ed. Carney, Don Innes, W. S. Smith, Ivan Redwood and "Pat" Healey.

It is said by those who know the play that it contains more real laughs for a one-act play than any that has ever been written.

This will be followed by a showing of Bairnsfather's famous cartoons. On Saturday forenoon the Vets will march to the Cenotaph where a ceremony will be held.

Is Proven That Trumpeter Swans Nest In District

"It was believed that the Trumpeter Swan was gradually becoming extinct," observed Col. Newcomen, of Ducks Unlimited, in an interview with The Herald-Tribune reporter last week at the Donald Hotel.

Col. Newcomen, who had just returned from a trip to Kleskun Lake, where with Dr. C. W. Watson, well-known biologist, and Dan Wishart, president of the local branch of the Game and Fish organization, where he inspected the temporary dam which is nearing completion.

The visitor went on to say that last year C. Bedell, director of "Upland game in more game birds in American foundation" and himself, saw the Trumpeter Swan and signs, which proves that the birds hatch in this area.

Continuing, Col. Newcomen said, that considerable doubt was expressed that these birds were Trumpeters. Since then, added Col. Newcomen, it has been absolutely proven that our opinion was right, as Dan Wishart found the carcass of a swan, which Dr. L. J. O'Brien sent down to the University of Alberta, where it was decided that the bird was a Trumpeter swan.

Dr. Watson, who is biologist for Ducks Unlimited, after spending several years in the United States in a similar capacity with game preservation organizations, in discussing the wild game life of the continent, said, that the efforts of the U. S. bureau of biological survey and Ducks Unlimited of Canada are having a very beneficial effect in the increasing of waterfowl.

Dr. Watson took moving pictures from the air and on the ground of the Kleskun Lake marsh, and also of the crew constructing the dam.

These pictures, said Dr. Watson, will be shown throughout the United States to sportsmen who are financing Ducks Unlimited of Canada.

Dr. Watson further stated that a survey made last summer indicated an increase in ducks of 27% in Western Canada as against the previous year. This was attributed principally to the work done by Ducks Unlimited.

Council Deals With Many Matters On Monday Night

Operation Of Rink To Be Given Over To Grande Prairie Athletic Assn. On A Rental Basis Of $300.00, Providing Satisfactory Agreement Can Be Arranged—Coun. Porteous Suggests Proper Regulation Of Truck Traffic.

The passing of accounts and the plowing through of a pile of correspondence and detail matters, held the town fathers until well into 11:00 o'clock on Monday night.

Mayor Lawlor occupied the chair. Councillors present were: Smart, Porteous, Watson and Swallow.

Charles Turner reported on the valuation of certain buildings. The following accounts were then passed for payment:

General	$715.79
Child's Welfare	30.00
Indigent Relief	28.00
Unemployed Relief	30.00
Labor	83.63
Total	$887.44

The rink question again came before the council when a letter was read from the Grande Prairie Athletic Association offering to rent the rink for $300.00 for the season.

In order that the offer be considered, Councillor Watson moved that a previous motion, which empowered the town to operate the rink be rescinded. The motion being carried, it was then moved to accept the offer, providing that a satisfactory agreement can be arranged.

The Mayor reported that Mr. Milligan, government plumbing inspector, had looked over the plumbing in the town and expressed himself as highly pleased with the work.

The financial statement for the month of October was submitted and approved.

Councillor Charters was appointed Deputy Mayor for the next three months.

On the Mayor's suggestion, two by-laws will be considered at a special meeting of council.

Councillor Porteous, chairman of the Works committee, drew attention to the damage being done to the principal business street by trucks.

In bringing this matter before the council, Mr. Porteous said, that he wanted it distinctly understood that he was not advocating discrimination against the truck service. Grande Prairie was a wholesale centre, and trucks were an important factor in transferring goods.

He suggested that this question be taken up with the department and he was of the opinion that certain donation would be made for street maintenance.

Concluding his remarks, Mr. Porteous observed that what he had in mind was proper regulation of the traffic, and he suggested that certain streets only be used by the trucks, which should be gravelled in the spring.

Councillor Porteous was assured by the Mayor that his suggestions would be considered.

The usual relief matters were also dealt with.

Owners of buildings in the downtown section, which were constructed recently, were given to June 1, 1940, to address of high school age and over are cordially invited to attend.

Memorial Service has been arranged for Sunday, Nov. 12, in the Masonic hall at 7:30 p.m. Returned men will wear their decorations, either medals or ribbons, and all together.

The Legion asks that all Returned men throughout the district please make an effort to attend.

Attempt To Assassinate Adolph Hitler

Chance Spares Fuehrer -- Bomb Explodes In Shrine Of Nazism -- Seven Of Hitler's Followers Killed -- More Than Sixty Others Are Injured

BERLIN, Nov. 9. — Germany mobilized all the might of her police on Thursday in search for assassins, blamed for an explosion in which only chance spared Adolf Hitler. A few minutes after the Fuehrer—earlier than had been expected—left a 19th anniversary celebration of the first Nazi putch Wednesday night in Munich's Burgerbrau hall, shrine of nazism, a terrific explosion blew down the ceiling.

Seven of Hitler's followers were killed and more than sixty of the old Nazi fighters were hurt. None of the high Nazi officials who accompanied Hitler to the traditional party celebration were reported among the killed or injured.

Rumors were heard in Amsterdam that Rudolf Hess, deputy Nazi party leader, was among those killed, but this could not be confirmed. The report was printed in some London newspapers. Hitler himself was safe aboard a special armored train at the time heading toward Berlin after an address which was regarded generally as preparation for his people to face a prolonged conflict.

The explosion in the Munich cellar would have buried Hitler under nine feet of debris had he not left the "beer hall" Putz Anniversary celebration earlier than expected. Officials said so far there was no trace of persons directly responsible for what must have been a long and carefully planned attempt.

Munich authorities searched for clues, but strictest secrecy was maintained and nothing was said about the cause of the explosion. Unqualifiedly blamed the explosion on British agents and declared it was so violent that a hand grenade or amateurish infernal machine could not have caused it.

The beer hall had been one of the most strictly watched spots in Munich for days and no explanation was offered how foreigners or conspirators could have entered.

LOCAL SCOUT ACTIVITIES

Last Tuesday, Halloween night, the troop did not meet as per usual, but the boys and their leaders reports many houses were visited for the round-up of apples, candy, etc. From the general appearance of the town after Halloween it appeared as being rather a quiet evening and the major offense it seemed was the soaping of windows. However, the boys of the Grande Prairie Troop behaved themselves pretty well during that night. Have been told of some remarks that were passed concerning our Church parade of Oct. 22, and one remark that was made was about how we marched. I think that this parade was very well conducted and it is not the teachings of the Scout movement to drill the boys in marching as such would be considered as a military movement, and that is the point that should be stressed on the parents of the Boy Scouts. It is not a military movement, but it is a peace movement, and deals largely with out door life and nature.

Tuesday, November 7 saw a large turnout of Scouts and their leaders. Scoutmaster was a little late showing up. I understand that James Sterling, efficient troop leader, took immediate charge and carried on until the scoutmaster arrived. Assistant Scoutmaster M. Swallow also capably assisted with Jimmie. We were disappointed to find Ralph Leach, Asst. Scoutmaster, absent, and we hope that he will be at the next meeting. Come on Ralph we need you.

Gus Kietke has almost completed his scout class tests and will soon be awarded his badge. Keep up the good work Gus. Bill and Bob Beest also are very close to getting their second class badge as I say. Bill and Bob get busy on this so that we can bring up our percentage of second class scouts. Should like to see one or two King Scouts before Spring.

Merele Nutt of the Wolves Patrol appeared in a new scout uniform last meeting and he looked very neat. The improvement in the appearance of the boys and I would like to see who have uniforms to wear them at the regular meetings. Six Scouts were appointed to assist the Salvation Army on their tag day for War Work which will be held on Friday, Nov. 10. These boys will be on the street in full uniform.

Plans for the coming Toy Shop are beginning to shape and we should have something definite very shortly. The meeting dismissed pretty well at nine o'clock and until next meeting remember the motto—"Be Prepared."

BOY SCOUTS' MATINEE

The Grande Prairie troop of Boy Scouts are putting on a matinee in the Capitol Theatre on Sat. Nov. 18, at 2:30 p.m. Admission is one toy that can be repaired or the small sum of ten cents.

Final Instalment On $50,000 Loan To Be Paid Soon

The Grande Prairie Council has received a wire from Ottawa, to the effect that the final instalment of the water and sewerage $50,000.00 loan, will be paid in a few days. The Council has also received word that the application for the second $50,000.00 2% loan has been approved.

Armistice Day, November 11th, will be celebrated at Grande Prairie in a Remembrance Service to be held in the new Capitol Theatre which will commence at 10:45 sharp, and it is requested that the audience be seated at 10:30 a.m.

The service will be conducted by the Ministerial Association. The speaker will be Rev. J. A. Roebuck, of McLaren's Baptist Church.

In the afternoon a turkey shoot will be held in the old Capitol from 2 to 6 p.m.

The shoot will be open to the general public. A large number of turkeys and geese have been secured for the event.

At 6:00 p.m., the veterans will hold a banquet in the Grande Prairie Hotel, the feature event of which will be a showing of Bairnsfather's famous cartoons, so popular in the days of the last great war.

Following the banquet, a smoker will be held by the veterans in the Memorial Hall.

A dance will also be held in the old Capitol Theatre from 7 to 12, to which the general public are invited.

BETTER CHARACTER TRAINING

By W. T. MEL FOWLER

In discussing this vital aspect of our educational objective, one is reminded of the remarks of the small boy to the effect that living would be much simpler if the most important things were as easy as the unimportant. We learn through experience that the worth-while rewards of life are the result of earnest effort. The qualities which we feel will lead humanity from its temporary morass of selfishness and individualism are not to be attained by the mere wish for a happier social order.

Because the whole world has seemed to be stirring morally and spiritually, educators have realized the importance of giving youth a foundation based on more than the knowledge of facts. I wish to call to the attention of parents and teachers the fact that one of the crucial problems of the moment is to blaze a new trail in something other than the economic field. First, of all, as a fundamental, it is true that youth takes its cue from its elders. We have heard much of the "revolt of youth" and its desire and ability to lead mankind into new fields. Those of us who are engaged in active teaching know that young people conscientiously and unconsciously take as an ideal an older person. Newspapers feature the exploits of celebrities, defaulting financiers; if salacious books circulate, if worthless films and so-called amusements are "fed" to the young, the result is a moral vacuum, then through no fault of their own the young will erect false idols. If parents casually and half-amusedly dismiss matters of public interest in which moral standards have been disregarded or shattered, no blame can be attached to the children who follow their parents' example. If teachers emphasize the rote learning of ancient civilizations and fail to discuss current social problems, they are neglecting their duty.

If you are willing to accept as valid the statement that youth smoothes its elders, what does this mean in terms of education as applied to character? It means a number of things which should stingingly challenge all those who believe that mankind can overcome the obstacles in the path to a better civilization.

What Adults Can Do:

As adults we devote our energies to fighting for clean, honest, and magazine whose stress is on the wholesome and constructive aspects. The cinema can become a marvelous power for good—if we insist. Amusements can be clean and healthful—and still be good fun.

The paralytic barnacles who fatten on society's indifference can be exposed in their true colors. We can give honor to those who fight for others in the fields of social welfare. We can condemn those who foster the war spirit because youth takes its cue from its elders. Those of us who are engaged in active teaching know that young people conscientiously and unconsciously take as an ideal an older person. Newspapers feature the exploits of celebrities, defaulting financiers; if salacious books circulate, if worthless films and so-called amusements are "fed" to the young, the result is a moral vacuum, then through no fault of their own the young will erect false idols. If parents casually and half-amusedly dismiss matters of public interest in which moral standards have been disregarded or shattered, no blame can be attached to the children who follow their parents' example. If teachers emphasize the rote learning of ancient civilizations and fail to discuss current social problems, they are neglecting their duty.

In short, this idea is submitted for consideration. Character education admittedly the gravest problem in the world today, must start with adult action. Teaching character is more than an academic task. It involves the conduct of all society and only as adults earnestly, honestly and sincerely seek what is right and honorable, will high standards be inculcated in youth.

GERMANY HAS TO IMPORT HEAVILY TO CARRY ON THE WAR

That Germany depends on imports to carry on the war is a statement made by those who are in a position to know.

With her ships swept from the high seas, Germany has to depend for supplies on the countries of Europe.

Can Russia supply Germany's present needs? is a question that many are asking.

The opinion of those who have studied the situation is that Russia cannot supply Germany with those things necessary to the prosecution of a long war.

Gas is a most important factor in modern warfare. Now what is Germany's position in this regard?

Normally that country uses 35,000,000 barrels of gas annually, and Russia's export of this commodity is only 8,000,000 barrels annually.

It is stated that Russia's annual output of oil amounts to less than 25% of Germany's oil requirements. The lack of a constant supply of oil for Germany's highly motorized army is fatal.

It is further learned that Russia cannot supply her ally with any great amount of other commodities for the reason that she has not sufficient for her own industrial needs.

The people of Germany have been on rations for a long time. In the face of these facts, Hitler cannot afford a long war. He must strike soon, risking his all on the throw.

On the other hand, France and Britain have access to immense fields of supplies.

The present war will be one of attrition as in the last war.

Right is on our side. The British empire with all its man power and resources stands solidly beside France in grim determination to drive Nazism from the face of the earth.

The sympathy of the common people of the world are with the Allies. There will be great sacrifices and destruction, but in the long run, right will triumph.

The democracies will win.

MUD—TERRIBLE MUD

Practically everyone travelling by car feels harrowing talks of experience in battling with mud, which is the worst since the country has had high-waters.

It was a common experience for travellers to have to take off wheels in order to clean off the mud before the car would run.

Teams were called into play where ever available. In a word, it has been a case of grief, and more grief, for those forced to make trips by car.

One man who came to grief in the Saddle Mountains, north of Sexsmith had to walk seven miles to get a team.

Bert Bessent tells of a unique experience in the high Prairie area. He said that he was down and a little way along two partridges were parked in the middle of the road.

The birds had become frightened after struggling for some time, finally flew away, leaving their legs in the gumbo.

There is one consolation in the various trying experiences and that is there will be plenty of moisture for next year's seeding.

A CHAT WITH A MAN WHO LIKES THE WORKS OF THE BEST AUTHORS

It is always a pleasure to meet a man who gets far away enough from his line of business to discuss some phase of literature.

Such a one is F. M. Murphy, of the Wainman district, whom I had the good fortune to meet on Saturday last while he was in Grande Prairie.

My old friend revels in Byron and Dickens, and the way he could quote

Dad's Notions

By E. S. Stanley

Not without a fighting chance to live did nature bring forth the rose bush, the hedge and cactus were given thorns for their protection. The cactus has the turtle's shell and the horse his heels with a propensity to use them.

But aggressive exertion as well as the defensive is necessary. So decreed for the good of all living.

Applied to man, let his body become weak through inaction and his chances for contracting disease are increased. Let him fail to use his mind constructively, and he is an easier prey to well-put, but unsound arguments. And should he fail to keep strong his power of will, he finds himself yielding to influences and suggestions even contrary to his own judgment.

Aggressiveness is a magnet. Men are instinctively drawn to a person of enterprise and aggressiveness. An honorable business man who is "on his toes" unconsciously draws trade. Favor settles upon him like homing-pigeons to their loft.

But a man in any calling who remains in a rut does not have his hands to repulse people. Profitable that might have been his drifts elsewhere, and difficulties come from behind him to root. "Want's poor Richard," who said, "push your business or your business will push thee." He believed in aggressiveness.

Better make a thousand mistakes and correct them as made, than to make the much greater mistake of being unaggressive. Though mistakes made there is a compensating factor: lessons are learned.

No less is aggressiveness needed in the affairs of the state. We are now facing the awful results of the mistaken idea that the economic methods of our grandparents would function as satisfactorily under greatly changed conditions. We have been very aggressive in changing conditions, but not in meeting them.

It is idiotic, by my notion, to suggest that the intelligence that has fashioned the world's conditions cannot adjust economic conditions to satisfactorily operate in those conditions.

The absurdity of it all, suffering in the midst of plenty, in an amazement to the most simple minded unlearned savage. He sees signs of marvellous intelligence, but with it unfathomable indications of insanity. Certain unaggressiveness is a nations major problem. Thousands of young men have reached manhood without knowing what employment is. The wealth of the nation and developments that might have been are naught. Strong characters with stamina, enterprise, sound judgment are lacking in tens of thousands.

We have raised one generation, a rich seed-bed for violent reaction. War is postponing the evil day of our nation's future. We must continue to enlarge that seed.

And again, an English neighbor tells me (and if he is not correct the dollar will hold) that 35c out of every dollar earned in the United States goes to the expenses devolved upon that country. And we know for Canada that about 50c of every dollar of taxes goes to interest—a legal racket—paying somebody hard cash for doing nothing. Pray, what sense is there in one group of men producing and paying half of which is handed across to the government to another group of men for neither production nor services?

Does possession of money entitle a man to exact tribute from his fellow beings? Because he has prospered and saved up, is that a valid reason why he should add to his accumulation, not by furthering his own service, but in the sweat of the other man's face?

Time was the unnoticed equalizing forces operated to prevent the unjust system from developing an insupportable situation. But that time has passed.

Let the millions of dollars now called forth extract wages (each and a million will be enlarged and hung upon one man's neck) hopelessly drown them in the bottomless lake of slavery—slavery to satisfy the brutish demand of a small group of getting something without production or service.

With what amazement must our neighboring planetites look down upon the lives of his brother who is like a crucible in which molten metal is recovered, so this war is making apparent the true and precious patriots among the citizenry.

Thousands of nations have offered their lives with no certainty of returning; and sustenance, only, do they receive. Who dares to say that isn't patriotism?

But dollars—dollars that are as sure to come back as the nation is to stand—will their owner not freely and without charge loan to the service of his country? If not, my blunt opinion is, he is not a patriot! he's a parasite! worse, he's a brute to demand unearned profit built upon the lives of his brother.

Conscription is not confiscation, though in the case of a human life it often becomes so.

Conscription of wealth with its uncertainty weighed in the balance against the conscription of wealth which is as secure and certain as the nation. Show us, I pray, one owner to say that wealth should not first be conscripted! And will the owner demur? Oh shame! the real traitor at heart is brought to light!

Should the life of the nation be come doubtful it would be a mild demand indeed, to not merely to conscript, but take the capital as a free of lives for the nation's use, choose between the gift of himself or of his cash. Nothing short of that, to my notion, would be fair.

WAS NAMED TWICE

When it comes to the odd name of that city in Washington state—Walla Walla—well, "Walla" is the Indian expression for "many waters." And the proud natives boast that the original settlers liked the place so well, they named it twice.

A stainless steel gauge has been invented to measure butter for your cooking.

The combined naval strength of Britain and France is five times that of Germany.

BRITAIN'S QUEEN SETS AN EXAMPLE TO HER PEOPLE

Better and more broadly than perhaps ever before, Britain's Queen represented womanhood. The royal commander of the woman's fighting services, Elizabeth graciously accepted the presidency of W.V.S. (Women's Voluntary Service), putting her on top of the female non-fighting services. She was already a typical British wife. The King was in uniform (Marshall of the Royal Air Force), and she no longer accompanied him wherever he went. She had her own visiting, inspecting, encouraging jobs to do. On a 24-hour schedule, from which future appointments had been dropped, she simply went where she thought she ought to go, appearing at one W.A.T. Service post which happened to be temporarily deserted. And she typified lonely British motherhood, for her two daughters had also been evacuated. She stood it as long as she could, then flew to Scotland to see them. No British Queen had ever spent a month more like the month spent by her subjects, and the parallelism and the example was not lost on the Empire.—From Time.

ANNOUNCE TEN PER CENT INCREASE IN WAGES TO TEXTILE EMPLOYEES

Announcing the immediate application of a 10% wage increase, amounting to nearly one million dollars in extra wages for the 11,000 cotton textile employees of Dominion Textile Co., Ltd., Blair Gordon, recently elected president of the company, said that the union had won upon advances total earnings of employees to an all time high point.

Real wages, reflecting the relation between the cost of living and the price of goods, have not advanced since Dominion Textile began manufacturing cotton yarns and fabrics in the early years of the century," continued Gordon. The dramatic enactment of all relief in this district will cause considerable hardships to those families with many children and little crops, the winter, and is a harsh and inhuman measure on the part of the authorities. Still Trying.—Increase of the guaran- teed initial price for wheat from 70 to 80 cents a bushel was demanded by Manitoba Pool Elevators, Ltd., at their annual meeting. Establishing parity of prices as between agricul- tural and all other commodities was also urged.

Teacher Needs.—Request for larger school administrative divisions was embodied in a resolution passed by teachers of this inspectorate at a recent session. Increased government grants were also requested.

EDMONTON, Nov. 6.—Onset of winter so early in the year gave the provincial works department an opportunity to try out the new snow-clearing equipment recently purchased at a cost of $12,000. Replacements for obsolete equipment consist of two four-wheel drive trucks fitted with sweeping V plows. Re-construction work was halted by the snowfall.

Appointment of J. E. Price as dic- trict agriculturist for Camrose, suc- ceeding the late H. W. Scott, is an- nounced by Hon. D. B. Mullen. Proposal that Alberta apilarists consider making use of the Alberta Marketing Act was made to the an- nual convention of beekeepers this week by Hon. Solon E. Low. He urged that they investigate the as- sistance which they might receive from the government if they formed a co-operative marketing body, and suggested that they consider the possibility of the Treasury Branches aiding them in financing such a body. A co-op. was decided upon.

According to official word received from Ottawa, there is a possibility that the province may receive an in- crease of $10,000 for the advance- ment of agriculture this year. Dis- tribution of the money will likely be handed over to the Seed Board, who recently discussed plans for use of the money should it be received. The Board consists of the deputy minis- ter of agriculture, superintendents of the Dominion seed branch and Leth- bridge experimental station, presi- dent of the Alberta seed growers' association and of the Dominion seed growers' association.

Taking over the job on Canada's defense department that he left at the end of hostilities in 1918, Prof. C. Robb of the mechanical engi- neering department, University of Alberta, has once more vacated his teaching post to go to Ottawa. There is a difference in status, however. A junior clerk in the defense de- partment during the last war, Prof. Robb will be chief during this. He goes to the gauge division at military head- quarters.

"The action of Premier Abernethy and his govern- ment in this connection is much ap- preciated by the Canadian Legion and returned men and their depend- ants," secretary S. G. Pelley, said.

The wreathes all bear a ribbon from the Province bearing the legend "In Remembrance." Stating that dis- abled men and their families will be- nefit by the orders, Mr. Pelley added that government's action showed re- cognition of the sacrifices made by soldiers who enlisted in the last war and gave their lives for Canada.

Alberta's now famous bull ex- change plan, by which farmers are enabled to bring pure-bred sales to their herds at small cost while liq- uidating scrub sires, is now closing the year's operations. 200 animals valued at $10,000 have been assem- bled in Alberta, they are about ready for shipment to farmers in all parts of the Province. Once again the passengers are pressed with tremendous weight up against their hammocks, because the flight of the machine is being strug- glyly decelerated. Their bodies become heavy as lead, and breathing diffi- cult.

At a suitable moment the retard- ing rockets are shut off and the machine completes a long and graceful glide, by the aid of the wings, to New York, where a safe landing is as easily made as that of an ordinary air liner.

To ensure journey, from start to finish, has taken less than one hour to accomplish, the distance as the crow flies, being approximately 3,900 miles!

A dream of the future? Yes. But one which is quite within the bounds of present day scientific knowledge, and perfectly feasible from an engi- neering standpoint. Thirty years of progress have brought heavier-than-air flight from a first trip of 352 ft. to "round-the-world" journeys. Who can say that thirty years of similar progress in the science of Astronau- tics will not conceivably make this dream of the future an accomplished fact?

AIR LEAGUE NOTES

Air Commodore Chamier has re- joined the R.A.F., but will continue to take an interest in the affairs of the League. Mr. Jack Wombill, Mr. Stanley Davis and Squadron Leader Schofield, the assistant secretary, have also gone, here is an excerpt from a letter received last week from Air Commodore Chamier:

"We are fighting for peace and freedom, and we are fighting a system of gangsterdom rather than against a nation. The individual German is a brave and often a very charming person. But he has in his character a curious weak- ness which permits him to be bossed about and led up the gar- den by a gang of outsiders such as Adolf Hitler and Co., who would not be tolerated in a Borstal in- stitution in this country. There- fore, in Germany's own interests, and in the interests of the freedom and justice of all humanity, we must hit out hard and strong and cleverly, until we have convinced the Germans that peace loving humanity, which it is reasonable to be tougher than the gangsters."

Hitler, as is revealed in his book, and the German nation, have some respect for us now, because we beat them in the last war. If we beat them then, we can beat them again. The question is not whether we shall win, but when we shall win. So let us do everything we can to achieve an early victory."

"EYES OF THE WAR ARE NOW 100 PER CENT BRITISH

Britain is now self-supporting in the production of the finest optical glass, "eyes" of the Fighting Forces and of scientists, without which no modern war could be fought.

This achievement is the result of 21 years intensive research and ex- periment in producing the 70 differ- ent varieties of optical glass, some of which are used in combination to make up lenses used in the highest-grade instruments.

In 1914 many foreign instru- ments were being used in the Services, but today the equipment is 100 per cent British," said Mr. T. J. Offer, of the Scientific Instrument Manufacturers Association of Great Britain in an inter- view.

This optical glass is used for peri- scopes, telescopes, binoculars, aerial photographic lenses, range-finders, gun sights, snipers' sights, anti-air- craft sights and a hundred other in- struments.

British firms are meeting all re- quirements for the rearmament pro- gram. The tests to which the in- struments are subjected are very stringent, and they have passed them most successfully.

Giving an example of the prestige of British photographic lens manu- facturers, Mr. Offer said that British photographic lenses are now used almost exclusively in Hollywood film studios, and Britain now actu- ally exports her spectrographic ap- paratus to countries most generally known as her keenest competitors.

BERLIN TO NEW YORK IN ONE HOUR!

An optimistic chapter from "Strato- sphere and Rocket Flight," by Chas. G. Philp.

Accompany me in an imaginary trip across the Atlantic as it will be undoubtedly performed in the not far distant future.

We set out from Berlin for the rocket flying ground, a few miles out from the city. Entering the airport, our attention is at once focused on a gleaming silver metallic body, and shaped like a gigantic "pear drop," which lies on the inclined plane of a large catapult worked by compressed air. This is the rocket plane, "Fortuna" and she is about to make her maiden trip to New York.

As we approach the ship prepara- tion to climbing up the side to an entrance lock, we note the short and stubby retractable wings of the type already developed years before in aeroplanes designed to meet condi- tions of flight at different altitudes.

The extremely blunt nose of our ship terminates in an iris diaphragm arrangement behind which is housed a propeller of the usual type, now invisible, because it will not be used until we descend at the end of our journey.

For the ascent and for the major part of the journey we require a perfectly smooth nose to our ship, but on the descent into the earth's atmosphere the iris diaphragm will be opened, thereby presenting a greater air resistance, and permitting the propeller to function so that our space ship will be able to plane down just like an ordinary air liner.

The heated air escaping from the propeller, in the nose of the ship, we see the tuyeres, or nozzles, of numerous rocket motors, and at the rear, we see other tuyeres similarly situated, but within a much smaller periphery.

The purpose of the stern rockets is to propel the ship ahead, and those in the bow of the ship, to retard, or slow down its forward motion. A few tubes are also to be seen on either side—the function of which is to alter the direction of flight, if necessary.

A few minutes before the start, the entrance ports are closed and hermetically sealed, and the passengers proceed to lie down in hammocks supported by heavy springs.

Then a bell rings, and we are off! The machine leaps into the air at an angle of 30 to 70 degrees, and within 50 seconds of the start is out of sight to the numerous onlookers who have assembled to see the start.

Meanwhile the passengers are un- dergoing no considerable discomfort. Their bodies now seem to weigh tons and they are pressed with terrific weight against the hammocks, which give as the springs which support them elongate under the great weight seems to lie on their chests, and they experience considerable trouble in breathing. They find it almost im- possible to lift their arms, because of this feeling of heaviness.

Gradually, however, they become accustomed to this nasty feeling, and as the flight continues the weight above the head seems to disappear, and comes when they must actually cling to their hammocks to keep them- selves from being bounced against the ceiling.

In about ten minutes from the start the rocket ship has attained its highest speed of nearly 4 miles a second, or some 14,000 miles per hour and the fuel at the start, or now consumed. But the rocket ship continues to rise, like a giant projectile, under the momentum it has acquired, requiring no further power.

Within half an hour it reaches the highest point of its curved path, or trajectory, at an altitude of 60 miles above the middle of the Atlantic Ocean, and now starts descending in a "free fall" towards its destination, its speed increasing in the same ratio as it was previously reduced by the pull of gravity during its upward flight.

When the machine is still 150-miles from its destination—its fall having been previously checked by the action of the bow rockets—the re- tractable wings, folded in the hull from the start, are extended to full span, and soon begin effectively to grip the thin atmosphere it is now entering.

Once again the passengers are pressed with tremendous weight up against their hammocks, because the flight of the machine is being strug- glyly decelerated. Their bodies become heavy as lead, and breathing diffi- cult.

At a suitable moment the retard- ing rockets are shut off and the machine completes a long and graceful glide, by the aid of the wings, to New York, where a safe landing is as easily made as that of an ordinary air liner.

To ensure journey, from start to finish, has taken less than one hour to accomplish, the distance as the crow flies, being approximately 3,900 miles!

A dream of the future? Yes. But one which is quite within the bounds of present day scientific knowledge, and perfectly feasible from an engi- neering standpoint. Thirty years of progress have brought heavier-than-air flight from a first trip of 352 ft. to "round-the-world" journeys. Who can say that thirty years of similar

On Friday, October 27, Mr. and Mrs. C. Taylor gave their wedding dance. Road conditions prevented a number of friends from a distance, attending this celebration, also most of the local lads are still out thresh- ing. However, in spite of the short- age of men folk, the girls had a good time and all present wished the young couple a long and happy life.

Here's How to Relieve MISERY of COLDS Without Dosing

There's nothing to swallow. Massaged on throat, chest and back, Vicks Vapo- Rub acts two ways at once to relieve misery of colds.

FIRST: VapoRub acts on the skin, stimulates like a warming poultice.

SECOND: At the same time, VapoRub gives off soothing medicated vapours that are inhaled direct into irri- tated air passages.

THIS DIRECT, 2-WAY ACTION loosens phlegm, clears air passages, checks tendency to cough—also relieves muscular tightness and soreness.

Because it's ex- ternal and safe, VapoRub can be used freely and as often as needed, for children and grown- ups. No wonder it's used in 1 out of 3 Canadian homes.

West McLennan Teachers Hold First Institute

Good Attendance in Spite of Bad Roads.—Institute Was Addressed by Mr. J. H. Bell of University of Alberta, Who Was Guest Speaker.—Mr. Percy Elected President.

SPIRIT RIVER, Nov. 7.—At Spirit River, Friday, October 30, the West McLennan Local held their first Teachers' Institute. Though road conditions were not favorable, the attendance was quite good. Of the fifty-one teachers, 26 were present with representatives from Watino to Blueberry Mountain.
The original schedule was somewhat rearranged but activities began in earnest when Mr. Stehelin gave the opening address.
After welcoming all teachers, new and old, Mr. Stehelin expressed his pleasure at such good attendance. He briefly outlined district conditions, financial and otherwise, explaining the necessity of this institute. This, of course was to eliminate long distance transportation to Grande Prairie for those teachers in outlying districts.

Miss MacDiarmid gave demonstration lessons to her class of Div. II students: social studies on Sir John Franklin to Grade 6, elementary science on "The Planets" to Grade 5. Interesting and purposeful work was given to the pupils which each observing teacher was allowed to interrupt for questions. The pleasure of hearing Mr. Stehelin's report of the progress of the West McLennan Normal school led a discussion on problems of progressive schools. The method of discussion used by Mr. Stehelin was very satisfactory, wherein numerous questions were answered.

Mr. Slettedahl of Belloy also led a group discussion on "Problems of Separate Divisions." This system we found quite successful, and it much to aid each teacher.

Mr. Ottewill of the University of Alberta, our guest speaker gave a public address on "World Affairs." In this Mr. Ottewill spoke on fundamental reasons for the international uproar at the present time, giving his own opinion on different situations. All of which was thoroughly enjoyed by each one present.

The organization meeting was conducted by Mr. Blackie, the former president. Miss Henderson read the report of the nominating committee, by which the executive for the West McLennan local were nominated.

The report read as follows: President, Mr. Percy; vice-pres., Mr. A. Jones; secy-treas., Miss MacDiarmid; press, Miss Beatty; councillor, Mr. Shettedahl. This report was accepted as satisfactory.

The afternoon closed with an address by Mr. Barnett, who outlined the work done by the Alberta Teachers' Assn. Mr. Barnett stressed some points of improvement which the association hope to bring to pass in the near future. In closing Mr. Barnett briefly outlined business concerning charters for local and sub-local associations. Our thanks are extended to Mr. Barnett for the interesting and helpful information given.

In the evening an enjoyable banquet was held in the Dominion Hotel with Mr. Lyle as chairman. An interesting and varied program then followed the banquet. Our thanks to Mr. Ottewill, Mr. Barnett, Mr. Filles and Mr. Lyle.
The evening closed with a dance in the Masonic hall, from which each one returned reporting a happy time.
